Corporate Overview

Dare Mighty Things, Inc. is a management consulting company. We specialize in the development of large scale programs that impact high risk populations. Our clients are government agencies, foundations, and not-for-profit organizations. We support these clients through:

- the research and design of outcome-based social programs
- the development of business plans and case statements
- the delivery of performance-based training and technical assistance
- and guidance in fund development and program sustainability.

Fifteen years of experience in formulating social solutions have provided our team with a profound understanding of the strategies necessary to address the needs of at-risk populations. In addition to the in-depth knowledge of prisoners and their families, high school dropouts, and juvenile offenders that our consulting staff possesses, Dare Mighty Things draws on a wide network of experts specializing in volunteer-driven program models, particularly in the mentoring field. Our services and staff are organized around three practice areas of specialization:

- Faith- and community- based organizations
- Youth and family programs
- Mentoring high risk populations

More than ninety-percent of our engagements result in the successful implementation of social initiatives and in many cases we continue to support these programs with world-class technical assistance and training. Dare Mighty Things is internationally accredited to provide continuing education units (CEUs) to program leaders who complete our training courses.
